About Central Electric Power Cooperative, Inc.

Central Electric Power Cooperative, Inc. (Central) is a wholesale electric generation and transmission cooperative (G&T) headquartered in Columbia, South Carolina. Central is owned by 20 independent, consumer-owned South Carolina distribution electric (member) cooperatives. These member-cooperatives provide retail electric service to their member owners located in every county in the State of South Carolina.

Central was formed in 1948 by seven South Carolina distribution cooperatives with the purpose of providing wholesale power and transmission aggregation by pooling resources to meet the needs of the cooperatives in a reliable and cost-effective manner.

The core services provided by Central for its member-cooperatives are power supply, transmission, economic development, member and energy services, and finance and billing services.

Today, Central and its member-cooperatives own transmission and distribution facilities in all 46 counties in South Carolina, serving electricity to about one third of the state's population. Central's member-cooperatives serve more than 820,000 meters and over 1.5 million residents.
